The pit sits on a strip the neighbours don't own.

A roughly 1.1 mile wide open pit on state land, near the Kigluaik Mountains and the Imuruk Basin. The site sits on a narrow strip of state land surrounded by corporation lands. [C10]

Bering Straits Native Corporation has invested about $2 million in the project. With the investment came a seat on an advisory board. [C14]

About 80 people came. It was not a vote.

On July 28 the Native Village of Brevig Mission, the City of Brevig Mission and the Brevig Mission Native Corp. held a joint session. About 80 people filled rows of tables and ate pizza provided by Graphite One. [C07]

KNOM reported overwhelming opposition. That is a characterisation of a room, not a count. A member of Graphite One's Subsistence Advisory Council is quoted on the other side in the same article. [C08]
